26 October 2026 at 10:19

TuJu, the Waze replacement, rated by Malaysians

Google Play: 1.2★ (4.9K reviews)
App Store: 1.3★ (1.9K ratings)

In their words:

Disappointing Navigation Experience 3 days ago

★☆☆☆☆

I genuinely wanted to support a Malaysian-developed navigation app, especially after the government encouraged Malaysians to switch from Waze to TuJu. Unfortunately, my experience has been extremely disappointing.The most basic feature of a navigation app is the ability to search for a .. more

Swipe for the rest → nifail

26 October 2026 at 10:19

1. Search doesn't work

A navigation app where you can't search for a place.

Promising concept, but launched way too early 3 days ago

★☆☆☆☆

Tuju feels like a solid starting point in theory, but in practice, it’s plagued by bugs. The AI LLM contact/chat feature actually works well, but that’s about the only thing that does.The core navigation fails, and the search function—arguably the most fundamental feature—doesn’t work at all. What is the po more

App Store · 1 star · names blurred

Search came up in 195 of the latest 500 App Store reviews, more than any other complaint.

> "Cari klcc pun tak kuar result."

nifail 2 of 5

26 October 2026 at 10:19

2. Even the CCTV

Live highway CCTV is the one thing TuJu has that Waze doesn't.

[redacted]

★☆☆☆☆ September 5, 2026

dont know who the heck developed and maintaining this app but they sure are lousy at their job especially on the highway cctv features. Always no feed and i thought its becoz of my device or internet, but when i view the cam on other apps or website it turns out just fine

640 people found this review helpful

Google Play · 1 star · names blurred

Posted in September, before the rush. 640 people marked it helpful.

nifail 3 of 5

26 October 2026 at 10:19

3. Even the review was outsourced

Read the first line.

Stone Age app 1 day ago

★☆☆☆☆

Here’s a sharp, critical statement that expresses your frustration while keeping it articulate and impactful.Tuju’s interface looks pale, feels unresponsive, and has a nostalgic aesthetic that reminds me more of an old FINAS film production than a modern navigation app. Honestly, if Tu more

App Store · 1 star · names blurred

> "Here's a sharp, critical statement that expresses your frustration..."

That reads like a chatbot's reply, pasted straight in.

nifail 4 of 5

26 October 2026 at 10:19

The plot twist

TuJu runs on Google's maps. Google owns Waze.

> However, it is important to note that TuJu still uses Google's mapping and points-of-interest data, alongside technology from Maybank.

Sinar Daily, 21 Oct 2026

> Google has purchased Waze

Engadget, 11 Jun 2013

To be fair, the ban was about Waze's company being under Israeli law, not about Google. But the map underneath is still Google's.

Would you switch if it worked?

nifail 5 of 5 · screenshots 23–26 Oct